

1. In the process control block, this one is an intruder.
CPU
2. PCB stands for _____ .
process control block
3. The process control block includes the attribute _____ to identify individual processes.
Process id
4. On modern operating systems for laptops, the process control block includes account information for billing.
False
5. Linux and most operating systems implement the process control blocks of the processes in this data structure: _____ .
double-linked list
6. In order to take back control of the CPU from a user process currently running.
None of these answers
7. When the OS preempts the CPU from a process and assigns it to another, this operation is called: _____ .
CPU switch context switch
8. Process P0 is initially running. The operating system (OS) plans to take the CPU from Process P0 and assign it to Process P1. The OS will save _____ and then reload _____.
save P0's PCB
reload P1's PCB
9. In the process control block, the _____ keep(s) track of the address of the next instruction to be executed by the process.
program counter